Picture: GettyGetting's current warning on the phone that the earthquake is about to begin is now an option in the Los Angeles County area with the new ShakeAlertLA app. Finally, use for my phone. The app is available for download for Apple and Android phones, ABC News reports, and is capable of alerting people up to twenty seconds before an earthquake occurs. That may not sound like much, but there can be a difference between life and death. California began using an earthquake warning system this summer that notifies citizens of seismic... Read morePreviously, the system is only available to a limited group of beta testers and has seen some satisfactory results in 2018. The application significantly expands access to the system. Warnings are issued only when the magnitude of an earthquake is 5.0 or greater and will be felt in the Los Angeles area. The notification is quite intense, but this may be what you need to read to get around: EARTHQUAKE, EARTHQUAKE, EXPECT STRONG TREMORS. DROP, COVER, AND HOLD ON. PROTECT YOURSELF NOW! G/O Media can get a commission68% off 2 Years + 3 Months Free App was originally developed with the intention of expanding to the entire West Coast, but the federal budget to create sensor network has been eliminated. However, the US Geological Survey (USGS) has announced plans to expand again after the alert system is tested regionally, according to Curbed Los Angeles. The app was possible in LA through partnerships with the city, the Annenberg Foundation and AT&T. In addition to providing a warning, the app also offers checklists for the earthquake survival kit, and what else you can do to prepare – or recover. The app doesn't have to be open to send you a notification, but it tracks your movements. He basically needs to know if you're in the danger zone. If you are able to take advantage of this service, you should. And if you're in an area that might use it, demand: 20 seconds of alerts can be just what you need. Contact your local representatives; Implementation in Los Angeles could not have happened without the support of LA Mayor Eric Garcetti. The Los Angeles Times also reports that Early Warnings Lab, which also works with the USGS, hopes to release its version of a similar app called QuakeAlert that will serve across the state. You can register with them to become a potential beta tester. The more interested, the more likely systems like these are to be completed. Assuming you have a romantic partner with whom to experience everything Los Angeles has to offer, this city may be one of the most romantic places in the United States. The variety of opportunities for romance is unparalleled anywhere in the world. From beach getaways to mountain retreats, from urban gardens to private sunset flights over the city, from champagne spa baths for two, to sexy underground nightlife, if you can't find something in Los Angeles to set up the right romantic mood, you looks hard enough. Grab your significant second, explore the following list and plan your romantic getaway to Los Angeles - you'll definitely find something you both enjoy. 01 of the 21 CheWei Chang/Flickr/CC BY 2.0 I love long walks on the beach has become a cliché of a personal ad and online dating profile for the simple reason that almost everyone enjoys a day at the beach and considers walking along it romantic - even if you're the kind of person who would walk the paved beach path instead than keep your feet sandy. This activity should almost be given for any couple visiting Los Angeles. After all, with 75 miles of coastline, the beach is one of los angeles' main attractions. Be sure to check out not only the beaches of Los Angeles, but also the nearby beaches of Orange County, famous for the villas and affluent neighborhoods that have emanated among them. 02 out of 21 There are many romantic restaurants across Los Angeles, but somehow sharing a special meal with stunning views makes it even more memorable. Restaurants such as Yamashiro, perched above Hollywood Walk of Fame, and Geoffrey's Malibu, which offers waterfront views, bring romance to new levels. 03 out of 21 Tony Nungaray/Flickr/CC BY-SA 2.0 Most women like to dance and appreciate a man who is willing to make an effort, regardless of skill level. Plus, getting your weirdo on one of the city's dance floors is a great way to end – or start – a romantic night in the city. With a variety of clubs ranging in price, from free admission to expensive cover costs, you're sure to find a great place to dance without breaking the bank - unless you want to impress your date! Exchange LA is a favourite for EDM fans, while A-listers flock to Avalon Hollywood. 04 of 21 Barry Winker/Getty Images The greater Los Angeles area has an abundance of beautiful public gardens, from encyclopedic botanical gardens to intimate Japanese meditation gardens. Among the top garden destinations in town, huntington library and botanical gardens in San Marino is perhaps one destination you can get the most out of your garden adventure, offering more than 120 landscaped acres with 16 themed gardens for your enjoyment. Along with exotic plants of many gardens, you can also browse collections of ancient manuscripts, including the Gutenberg Bible from around 1455. Continue to 5 out of 21 below. 05 out of 21 You don't have to travel to Italy to romantically ride a gondola. There are several locations in Southern California where you can be serenaded as you are guided along quiet inland waterways. The Getaway Gondola in Long Beach offers a ride around the Canals of Neapolitan Island and Alamitos Bay, while Gondola Adventures in Newport Beach provides the most eye-to-eye gondolas around. Both offer competitive fares and a range of driving times that can fit into your budget and your schedule. Don't forget to bundle up for a romantic gondola ride, as it cools off on the water after the warm sun in L.A. beyond the horizon. This gives you the perfect excuse to cuddle near a loved one. 06 of 21 Pascal Le Segretain/Staff/Getty Images You might think Disneyland is child-only, but if you take a moment to get into the prince-princess fantasy, there are plenty of opportunities for romance in the happiest place on earth, including a few narrow rides. Perhaps you should take advantage of the perfectly picturesque best places to kiss at Disneyland, or you could spend all day getting lost in a child's miracle among your favorite childhood cartoons. No matter which way you look at it, a trip to Disneyland in Los Angeles is a magical adventure you won't want to miss. 07 out of 21 Laura LaRose/Flickr/CC BY 2.0 Whether it's a cooking class, a surf lesson for two or a few hours at a trapezoid school, sharing a learning experience can be a great way to spend bonding time while traveling to the City of Angels. Offering lessons in everything from throwing an axe at the Kraken Axes to dancing in Ballroom Dancing LA, Los Angeles is a paradise for creators and doers. If you and your loved one really like learning, be sure to look for a class while in town. 08 of 21 Hitesh Patel/EyeEm/Getty Images A private air tour of Los Angeles in a helicopter or small plane is a great introduction to a romantic dinner for two, and some travel companies will even fly you to dinner at a high-end restaurant. This is a great way to sweep your sweetheart off your feet. There are a variety of air tours of Los Angeles to choose from, including one from Orbic Air that takes guests on a 45-minute tour of Beverly Hills, the Sunset Strip, and the center of the skyline as long as it sips on free champagne, nibbling on a delicious dessert, and cuddling up close to a loved one. You even get a photo of souvenirs to commemorate the experience. Continue to 9 out of 21 below. 09 out of 21 Erik Isakson/Getty Images Sharing a picnic in a special location is a romantic way to spend time together, and you can go budget route and grab your favorite fast food or put together a gourmet feast from a local supermarket, or you can go out with champagne and caviar or a basket from your favorite high-end restaurant. Bistro Garden, Clementine Catering & Café and Marston's Restaurant are among the best places in town for a prepared picnic-to-go, and once you've got your meal, consider going to Corona del Mar State Beach in Orange County or Roxbury Park in Beverly Hills for the ideal setting to enjoy a meal. 10 out of 21 If you both enjoy horseback riding, romantic horseback riding in the Santa Monica Mountains or on the beach can be a great way to spend time together. A ride company in Los Angeles offers sunset, sunrise or moonlight rides, with or without food. All rides are guided, so coordinate with the setting guide and the space you need. You can also book a private sunset ride to see the Hollywood sign Griffith Park. 11 of 21 Bob Berg/Contributor/Getty Images For those who enjoy sharing an open road adventure at the back of a Harley or other motorcycle, mulholland drive winds along the mountains between the L.A. Basin and the Valley give you stunning views of both. However, you don't have to bring your own bike, as there are a number of large rental companies along the Pacific coast highway, such as EagleRider. Keep in mind that renting can become expensive, especially if you plan to drive all the way to San Francisco and return the motorcycle to the dealer there. 12 out of 21 Thomas Barwick/Getty Images Maybe a motorcycle could be too much of a thrill for you and your partner. Driving along the Pacific Coast Highway in a convertible on a sunny day adds a little sex appeal to your adventure through Malibu. You can also track the coastline through neighborhoods all around the Palos Verdes Peninsula. The Orange County coast is another option, or you can spend all day driving from Malibu to South Orange County with vantage marks stops along the way. Depending on the rental company you choose (and how far you drive), prices will typically flow between $100 and $300 per day. Be sure to bring a blanket under which you will cuddle and warm each other during a dry evening in Southern California. With a variety of large and tiny points gracing the stage, buying your loved one a ticket to one of these big concerts is sure to put him in a romantic mood. 14 of 21 Tom Haseltine/Getty Images Dancing with the Stars showed just how sexy ballroom dancing can be, and it's still perfectly romantic to hold your partner and spin him on the floor even if you're just a beginner. Fortunately, there are many lessons and clubs where you can dance tango, waltz, salsa, foxtrot, swing and more. 15 out of 21 Mark Mitchell/Flickr/CC BY 2.0 There's something a little old-fashioned and inherently romantic about riding a Ferris wheel - taking an elevated view and sharing a kiss at the top. The solar-powered Ferris wheel at Pacific Park on Santa Monica Pier is a great choice, offering scenic views along the coast, with or without an accompanying walk along the beach. A newer alternative is the Pike Ferris wheel in Long Beach at dusk overlooking shoreline village, pike, Rainbow Harbor lighthouse and Queen Mary. 16 of 21 L. Allen Brewer/Flickr/CC BY 2.0 In keeping with the theme of nostalgia, a 1936 walk along the deck of the 1936 Art Deco Queen Mary ocean liner. You can watch the sunset from the observation post and watch the lights of the city come on at dusk. Make from this dine in one of the ship's restaurants, and you can even get a room on board at the Queen Mary Hotel. Continue to 17 of the 21 below. 17 out of 21 Casual pedal boat rides (paddles) is a pleasant way to share an hour or two outdoors, especially on a hot day, and Los Angeles has plenty of fun places where you and your loved one can experience this fun activity. Pedal boats can be rented from Redondo Beach Kayak, SUP & Pedal Boat Rentals, and Alfredo's Beach Club has aqua cycles at Rainbow Laguna in Long Beach and pedal boats in Whittier Narrows, while El Dorado East Regional Park in Long Beach also rents pedal boats. 18 of 21 SusanGaryPhotography/Getty Images Water kayaking can be a romantic way to spend a few hours on a sunny Southern California day. It's easier to have a conversation while speeding across the interior of the waterways, disturbed only by the occasional motorboat awakening, than having to shout across ocean waves. Moseying side by side in individual kayaks is more conducive to flirting than when sitting in front of each other, but if one of you is a much stronger rower, it's best to get a tandem kayak so the weaker rower doesn't get frustrated trying to keep up. One of the best places to rent a kayak is at Huntington Harbor in Sunset Beach, where there are small pocket beaches so you can get off and have a picnic. 19 out of 21 Prayitno/Flickr/CC BY 2.0 Even if diamonds aren't yet on the horizon, you'll find all sorts of trinkets in the Los Angeles Jewelry District in downtown Los Angeles. It is the largest wholesale jewelry district in the country with nearly 5,000 companies. Your significant other will be so blindsided that he or she won't mind you buying wholesale! The main core district is on Hill Street between 5th and 8th Streets, with multiple businesses on the parallel streets of Olive and Broadway. 20 out of 21 If you're thinking of asking questions, Los Angeles has some truly unique opportunities to make it a memorable moment. A few memorable ideas: while riding the city's beaches, on top of the Ferris wheel at Santa Monica Pier, or on the famous ribbon board at Dodger Stadium. Continue to 21 of the 21 below. 21 of 21 Kenny Hung Photography/Getty Images You may have already explored everything Los Angeles has to offer, or maybe you and your loved one just need someone to pull out of town for a while. Either way, there are plenty of romantic getaways within hours of the City of Angels, perfect for a weekend or a day trip with your significant other. A quick trip from Los Angeles – consider camping in Malibu, a day spent in sunny shops on Santa Barbara State Street or exploring santa barbara's Old Mission – is a great idea. Idea.
